Announcement of the Big Data Institute (Public Organization)
Regarding the No Gift Policy for Fiscal Year 2026

The Big Data Institute (Public Organization) (BDI) aims to foster an organizational culture of transparency and integrity and to prevent corruption. Therefore, BDI has established the No Gift Policy, which prohibits the acceptance of gifts or gratuities of any kind in the course of official duties. This policy serves as an important measure to reduce opportunities for undue benefits, ensure fairness in the performance of duties, and strengthen public trust and confidence among stakeholders. The implementation of this policy is in line with the National Strategy and good governance principles to promote transparency, accountability, and sustainable national development.

To demonstrate BDI's strong commitment to integrity in its operations and management, the following No Gift Policy is hereby announced:

1. All BDI officers and staff shall refrain from giving and accepting any gifts or gratuities of any kind from external parties in connection with their official duties.
2. All BDI officers and staff shall not seek to obtain gifts, gratuities, or any other benefits that are unlawful or inappropriate.
3. BDI shall inform and publicize this No Gift Policy to all external parties concerned.
4. In cases of expressing congratulations, goodwill, hospitality, or condolences on various occasions in accordance with customary practices, such expressions should be made through signing greeting cards, condolence books, electronic messages, or other cost-free methods.
5. If it is necessary to give or receive gifts, gratuities, or other benefits in accordance with social norms or traditions to maintain goodwill, friendship, and good relationships between organizations provided that such giving is not directed toward any specific individual and does not affect the performance of duties before giving or receiving any gift, gratuities, or any other benefit, it must be ensured that all relevant laws and regulations have been complied with.

All BDI officers and staff must strictly comply with all laws and regulations related to the giving or receiving of gifts or gratuities that apply to public officials.

Announced on 19 December 2025
